

Powerful and Effective Messengers

Romans 1:9-16

*My message is clear and plain.
I can speak almost any language.
I am never too busy, nor is any distance too great for me to travel to reach one soul. I need no regular support, nor do I pay room and board in foreign lands. Even my ocean trips cost very little. I am never sick and am always ready to share the Gospel of Christ. I never argue but I simply proclaim the truth. I witness to all kinds and classes of people.
Often my travels take me to the beds of the sick, but I fear no disease. I have gone into broken homes, hospitals and prisons, and even into countries behind the iron and bamboo curtains. I have a great ministry, but I need your help. I cannot get to places on my own. I need you to use me and bring me to lost and needy people that you come in contact with. WHO AM I?*

The answer should be obvious: a Gospel tract.

The power of Gospel literature should not be underestimated. A tract entitled The Bruised Reed helped lead to the conversion of Richard Baxter. He wrote A Call to the Uncon-verted which was used in the conversion of Philip Doddridge.
Doddridge wrote The Rise and Progress of Religion in the Soul.
William Wilberforce read this book and found Christ, and then wrote Practical View. This book was instrumental in the conversion of Leigh Richmond who wrote The Dairyman's Daughter, which has been used in the conversion of countless souls in many lands. A tract given graciously at a restaurant or to a store cashier is rarely refused. As believers we should take every opportunity to engage in prayerful Gospel tract distribution.
“The Lord gave the Word: great was the company of those that published it” (Psalm 68:11).

~George Zeller: www.middletownbiblechurch.org

Powerful and Effective Messengers

Romans 1:9-16

*My message is clear and plain.
I can speak almost any language.
I am never too busy, nor is any distance too great for me to travel to reach one soul. I need no regular support, nor do I pay room and board in foreign lands. Even my ocean trips cost very little. I am never sick and am always ready to share the Gospel of Christ. I never argue but I simply proclaim the truth. I witness to all kinds and classes of people.
Often my travels take me to the beds of the sick, but I fear no disease. I have gone into broken homes, hospitals and prisons, and even into countries behind the iron and bamboo curtains. I have a great ministry, but I need your help. I cannot get to places on my own. I need you to use me and bring me to lost and needy people that you come in contact with. WHO AM I?*

The answer should be obvious: a Gospel tract.

The power of Gospel literature should not be underestimated. A tract entitled The Bruised Reed helped lead to the conversion of Richard Baxter. He wrote A Call to the Uncon-verted which was used in the conversion of Philip Doddridge.
Doddridge wrote The Rise and Progress of Religion in the Soul.
William Wilberforce read this book and found Christ, and then wrote Practical View. This book was instrumental in the conversion of Leigh Richmond who wrote The Dairyman's Daughter, which has been used in the conversion of countless souls in many lands. A tract given graciously at a restaurant or to a store cashier is rarely refused. As believers we should take every opportunity to engage in prayerful Gospel tract distribution.
“The Lord gave the Word: great was the company of those that published it” (Psalm 68:11).

~George Zeller: www.middletownbiblechurch.org